

Epicor® FFL Compliance Manager®

Tips For Addressing Common ATF
Compliance Challenges With
Epicor FFL Compliance Manager

1

Software helping to comply with ATF Ruling 2016-1

2

Proper A&D records for all FFLs operated by your business

The FFL Compliance Manager application makes it easy to manage licenses and bound books for each of your physical branches. Mark books as open or closed and set user permissions for bound book visibility and access.

Streamlined completion of 4473 helps increase accuracy

The e4473 feature with Kiosk Mode helps to streamline the completion of the ATF form 4473 and helps ensure accuracy. ATF form instructions are provided for each section of the form and application controls assist with form integrity. Built-in guided assistance, help documentation, and video tutorials are also available.

4

Timely completion and submission of ATF F 3310.4 (multiple handgun sales form)

The e4473 workflow is designed to automatically search for potential multiple sales over the last five business days and generate the required e3310 form.

5

Proper 4473 sequence numbering

The FFL Compliance Manager application workflows are designed to assist you by incorporating FFL eZCheck for secondary validation of the Seller or Buyer FFL and automatically assigning a sequence number through the e4473 process.

Verify firearms traceability through accurate A&D records

Our application is designed to enable compliant transaction entry. So, when it comes time to conduct traces per the ATF regulation, the FFL Compliance Manager application helps to make responding to ATF and law enforcement traces a breeze. Simply select "Run Trace" to trace firearms by serial number, manufacturer, model, type or caliber. The application is designed to provide the appropriate records for a quick response and record the trace activity to the Trace History report.

7

Timely reporting to ATF during compliance inspections

Use the one-click IOI Inspection feature designed to quickly perform an audit and package all the related compliance reports required to support an ATF inspection when the agent arrives.
